Title and abstract:

Charters of the Counts Palatine of the Rhine 1449-1508: A project of cooperative description and presentation in Archivportal-D.

The Wittelsbach Counts Palatine of the Rhine ranked among the most important and powerful secular princes of the Holy Roman Empire in the late middle ages. Since their written records remain scattered and are edited only until the year 1410, a new project tries to close the gap by bringing together archives in Baden-Württemberg (Karlsruhe), Rheinland-Pfalz (Speyer, Koblenz), Hessen (Darmstadt) and Bayern (Amberg, München) to describe, make accessible and publish online about 7.000 late medieval charters and copies from cartularies. The 3-year-project is financed by the German Research Foundation (DFG). In my presentation I want to introduce and showcase the project and talk about challenges of standardization, archival description and authority data in a project with several archival ‘stakeholders’ and the common goal of presentation of the charters in one overarching portal.
